Signpedia's values are built upon five aspects. They are:

- problem solving
- empowerment
- commitment
- community; and
- integrity

This makes up five.

What is problem solving? Are you feeling frustrated, confused or experiencing barriers to finding or accessing a support or service? Working with Signpedia, we can work with you to tailor a solution that meets your individual support needs.

Empowerment: Do you feel unsure when approaching a service or support not listened to when you attempt to communicate and aren't sure what to do? Working with Signpedia, we can support you by first asking what you need, then seek feedback from the person support or service you want to meet. Signpedia provides the tools and knowledge to empower you to approach the person equally. That's empowerment.

Our community is made up of many diverse peoples and groups, all working very hard individually, but may not be aware of other groups within our community. Promoting a connection to community provides the opportunity to meet new faces, have peace of mind and reminds us of the skills and knowledge we all possess. Sharing our individual skills, knowledge and experience with others enriches our community and promotes unity.

Signpedia is committed to you. Do you feel that your goal is too far away in the distance? Too difficult or impossible? And you feel like giving up. Please don't give up. At Signpedia, we are committed to finding a way and working through barriers to ensure you feel supported, allowing you to achieve your goals before you know it.

At Signpedia, we value integrity. Signpedia operates with an open mind, honesty and an ethical approach. Signpedia is required to follow all government legislation, and NDIA regulations. We appreciate the government with the NDIA have provided us with a clear understanding of how to provide a great service. It's teamwork between the NDIS, us here at Signpedia and you. We encourage a culture of transparency to ensure that we do business the right way and you have a smooth experience.
